CORNELIUS — A Charlotte-based law firm recently opened a new office to better serve clients in the Lake Norman area.

Sodoma Law held a ribbon-cutting ceremony for the firm’s new location in Cornelius at 18825 W. Catawba Ave. The space houses attorneys who provide legal services in areas including family law, estate planning and mediation.

Sarah Bennett, a “near-native” of northern Mecklenburg County, serves as the new office’s managing attorney.

“I’ve been here since I was about seven-and-a-half years old, so I was thrilled to learn that Sodoma was going to be expanding north,” Bennett said. “I know and love this community, and I’m thrilled to be here.”

She added: “Every single person that works at Sodoma embodies the standard of being a creative, fearless problem solver and I can’t wait to bring that to this area.”

Nicole Sodoma, the founder and managing principal of Sodoma Law, called the expansion to the Lake Norman area a “match made in heaven” for clients in the area, and spoke highly of Bennett.

“She is the definition of fearless and courageous, and she just gives you that feeling that everything is going to be okay,” Sodoma said about Bennett. “No matter how complex the case is, no matter how emotional it may be, she just stands up and stands strong, and you feel like you’re really taken care of.”

I just wanted to let your agency know that your wonderfully written article about my Beauty Supply Store and Salon literally helped save my store from closing. The combination of placing the reasonably priced ad and the article had people visiting from multiple surrounding cities and they also told their friends and family.

As a result, I see the power of advertising especially in local media. Advertising has made a huge difference for my business. The price point is very reasonable and the customer service is excellent. Thank you so much for your wonderful services.
